No. of Items: 1 box, .5 cu ft.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

A native of Minot, ND, Catherine Henson Manley spent most of her long career teaching art and related subjects in Flagstaff, Arizona schools. Mrs. Manley attended UCLA as an undergraduate, and studied art, English and education. She went on to earn a masters degree in art from USC in 1941. Her husband, Ray H. Manley, was a freelance photographer, and her son Ray Manley Jr. is a vacation tour operator.

Catherine Manley's personal interest in poetry, photography and Native American art, as well as her enthusiasm for Zane Grey is reflected in this collection.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The Catherine Manley Collection is divided into four series. Manuscript material includes reports and poetry, most written by Manley. The second series, printed matter, includes Zane Grey newsletters and brochures describing her son's tour business. Series three, newsclippings, reflects Manley's interest in information regarding Native Americans and Zane Grey. Miscellany, the final series, includes photographs, a/v material as well as examples of Mrs. Manley's artwork.
