BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE:

Louis Anthony Russo was a teacher, director, performer, and mentor. Russo was the founder of the Star Theater in Scottsdale where he developed the improv troupe, "The Oxymoron'Z" and taught stand-up comedy. He also played Lord Mayor at the annual Renaissance Festival in Apache Junction from its inception in 1989 until 1998. Russo's performing arts career spanned four decades where he worked as an actor, voice-over artist, director, producer, and writer. Russo died in December of 2000 from heart complications.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE:

This collection consists of over 250 photographs, ranging from good to excellent condition. They are organized alphabetically by subject. The bulk of the photographs represent Russo's work with the Oxymoron'Z and the Renaissance Festival. In addition, the photographs are identified by the different characters Russo played for theater productions and events. Negatives, slides, and transparencies are sleeved and found in the folders with their corresponding photographs. There is one album from the 1993 Renaissance Festival. This collection also contains various awards, certificates, and memorabilia from Russo's acting, the Star Theater and the Renaissance Festival.

For more information see the biography file Russo, Louis Anthony FB BIO-1775.
